obtained for the perfumery of the plaintiff, and in this design he has been to some extent successful, and has thereby injured the plaintiff, it is a proper case for an injunction to restrain the use of the label or trade-mark; notwithstanding the defendant sets up the defence that the plaintiff, in selling his perfume, is attempting to impose upon and defraud the public, if the evidence upon that subject is conflicting: Smith et al. v. Woodruff, 48 Barb.

That defence ought to be suggested by the court, whenever the imposition on the part of the plaintiff is flagrant. Thus, where a quack compounds noxious and dangerous drugs, hurtful to the human constitution, and advertises them as a safe and sure remedy for disease; or where a charlatan avails himself of the prejudice, superstition, or ignorance of some portion of the public to palm off a worthless article, even when not injurious, the case falls beneath the dignity of a court of justice to lend its aid for the redress of such a party, who has been interfered with by the imitations of another quack or charlatan. Per LEONARD, J.: Id.

VESSEL.

Registry—Permanent and Temporary—Sale.—A vessel cannot have two registers at the same time: Chadwick v. Baker, 54 Me.

“Permanent” and “temporary,” when applied to the registers of a vessel, do not imply that they are co-existent, but successive: Id.

Such a sale of a vessel, in whole or in part, as creates a new owner, renders her former registry inoperative and void: Id.

Under Act of Congress of July 29th 1850, a bill of sale of a vessel, whether conditional or absolute, must be recorded in the office from which her last register issued: Id.
